

“A jug fills drop by drop” is a quote from Buddha. “Quite simply, it means that you can achieve greatness by taking small steps. Just like filling a jug, putting one drop of water in to the jug may seem insignificant, but if you consistently fill the jug with even just 1 drop of water, the jug will become full eventually.

The same way when you want to achieve something, first wish for it and second, you work for it. To reach your goal you must focus on your goal, put in your best effort and have patience. A little effort everyday will help you to reach your destination.

My dear students as we begin another academic year 2018-19 be prepared to take small steps towards your goal. No task is overwhelming or insurmountable when you take small steps every day. So at the beginning of this year take time to pen down your short term goals and long term goals as well as the methodology you want to apply to make your goals happen. Then begin all that you do with trust in the Divine Power of God and believe in yourself. With God at your side nothing is impossible.

Once you set your mind towards achieving your goals, be prepared to work hard and make the required sacrifices. So start small, be consistent and be confident. Success is yours.

With best wishes and blessings in abundance.
